WOLFE'S
Schiedam Schnapps.

THE above Medicinal Beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at his distillery, in Schiedam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use.

It is now some twenty years since the proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over three thousand letters from physicians, indorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper-berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effect produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South, and Southwest are peculiarly liable—the SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS will be found absolutely infallible; while in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

THE SCHOOL-GIRL HEIRESS.

Progress of the Testimony in the McKinley Case.

A Glimpse at the Other Side of the Story.

A Singular Affidavit of Judge Hoke.

A St. Louis Affidavit as to Dr. McKinley.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal, 13th.]

The taking of testimony in the McKinley habeas corpus case was resumed yesterday afternoon before Judge Bruce of the Circuit Court. The first witness called was Dr. T. S. Bell, who was the last examined on Monday. The following statements were made:

TESTIMONY FOR RESPONDENT.

Dr. T. S. Bell—The girl was sent to the Widows and Orphans' Home because she had been totally deserted by her father. I thought it would be ruinous for her to be neglected. Dr. Osterloh ey took her to the Widows and Orphans' Home. After the first time I saw Dr. McKinley, I never saw him when he was not under the influence of liquor or opium. Did not know that she had been sent to St. Ursuline until the Mother Superior asked me if I knew Dr. McKinley, saying that his child was being kept at the expense of the institution. She requested me to write to the brother of the girl at Columbia, Tenn. Up to that time there was a credit of only $5 on the books of the institution. Never received any answer to the letter I wrote the brother. I wrote twice.

—Gravele—Was slightly acquainted with Dr. McKinley. He came into my store one day and introduced himself as a Bureau Doctor; he said he felt bad and wanted a little brandy and peppermint. He came back twice afterward and got the same prescription filled. I subsequently refused to let him have anything. The last time he was there, he was very much under the influence of liquor.

V. Rose—Reside in Louisville; am not personally acquainted with Dr. McKinley. Saw him in June or August last tolerably drunk. I am at the Adams Express office.

Cross-examined—I was requested to go to St. Ursuline Academy for the girl by letter from the express agent, to send her on to St. Louis. They told me at the academy, I think, to call again. I went two or three days after, and was put off; but I don't remember the conversation which passed. They talked about the tuition fee not being paid. I wrote of this to St. Louis.

Jos. Wahl—Reside in Louisville; keep the St. Nicholas bar. Saw Dr. McKinley last summer. He came in one afternoon very drunk, and asked for a drink. I would not let him have anything. Next day I saw him passing by in his shirt sleeves, bareheaded, and with mud on his clothes.

TESTIMONY FOR PETITIONER.

The counsel for the petitioner read the following affidavits:

AFFIDAVIT OF JUDGE W. B. HOKE.

W. B. Hoke states that some time in the month of August, 1868, two ladies in company with others, one a young girl about thirteen or fourteen years old, called at his law office in Louisville, Ky. The ladies requested that one of them should be appointed guardian of the Miss, who gave her name as E. J. Lyon McKinley. I believe they stated that Miss McKinley was over fourteen years of age, and that she desired to select a guardian. When the name of the girl was mentioned I did not understand her name fully, and asked them to repeat it, which they did, and then handed me an envelope upon which was printed the name of E. J. Lyon McKinley. I asked some questions (as I always do when a minor is brought before me to select a guardian) and the ladies exhibited so much uneasiness, and answered all the questions without allowing Miss McKinley to answer, that I requested her to come in the back room where Col. English and Mayor Tomppert were talking, and in the back room I asked her about her parents, property, etc. The ladies, or one of them, came to the middle door of the office once or twice while we were talking, and when I requested them to keep their seats in the front room, they replied that they feared Miss McKinley would be frightened and not answer any questions, or some reply of that kind. I made the order, allowing one of the ladies to qualify as guardian, and soon afterward C. T. Taylor, Esq., came for me to go to the court-house and hear his objections made against my order allowing the guardian to qualify. I went immediately to the court-house, and in the Clerk's office found the two ladies and young girl and a priest.

The ladies claimed to have charge of the St. Ursuline Academy, Louisville, Ky., one as Superior and the other as teacher. I received my order appointing a guardian, and told the parties I had nothing more to do with the affair. The ladies stated to me that she was the daughter of Dr. McKinley, who had abandoned his child, and they were taking care of her, and desired to be qualified as guardians, as she would some time soon be entitled to a small amount of property.

I do not recollect that they stated the residence of the child's father, but I think they represented him as a wayfaring man, without home or cares for his child. When I saw the same parties at the Courthouse and rescinded my order, they then, during their argument with Mr. Taylor, claimed to hold the child because there was a balance due for the child's board, and requested Mr. Taylor to pay the board bill. Mr. Taylor replied that Dr. McKinley would in a few days pay the money.

On Monday, the 11th of this month, I go to Frankfort, and expect to remain all the week, and cannot be here at this trial.
W. B. HOKE,
Judge of the Jefferson C. C.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, by W. B. Hoke, the 6th of January, 1869.
C. T. TAYLOR, Notary Public.

AFFIDAVIT OF ROBERT D. SUTTON.

Robert D. Sutton, being duly sworn, on his oath states that he is acquainted with Dr. S. E. McKinley; that he has been intimately acquainted with him for the past three months or more; that he has known him by reputation at least one year; that he fully believes him to be a fit and competent person to have sole charge and control of his daughter; that he believes he is amply qualified to raise and educate said child, as he has witnessed his daily relations with his son now living with him; that he knows his habits are regular, sober, and orderly; that he has never seen him intoxicated, or heard of his being so; that he is industrious and careful in the discharge of his duties, and he considers him a gentleman in every respect.
ROBERT D. SUTTON.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this, the 6th day of January, A. D., 1869.
DAVID F. KAIME, Notary Public.

I hereby certify that I have been acquainted with Robert D. Sutton for about twelve years; that I believe him to be an honest and truthful man; that he is an old citizen of St. Louis.
DAVID F. KAIME, Notary Public.

Dr. Doyle was examined as to the attendance of the girl E. J. Lyon McKinley, at Grace Church Sabbath school, and as to Dr. McKinley's attendance at church. He had seen the Doctor at church, and had been informed his daughter attended the Sabbath school.

In answer to a question of Judge Bruce as to Robert D. Sutton, the counsel for the petitioner stated that he was a minister of the gospel in St. Louis.

The counsel for the respondent presented a letter from New Orleans, and also one from the Chief of Police of St. Louis, but these, with a number submitted by the counsel for the petitioner, were placed in the hands of Judge Bruce for examination.

The case was then continued until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

AWFUL CALAMITY.

Eight Lives Lost—Fifty Persons Frightfully Wounded.

Falling of the Floor of a School-Room in Rochester, N. Y.

From the Rochester Democrat.]

An accident more destructive in its results than any hitherto occurring in this city, happened last night at the German School of St. Peter and St. Paul, on East Maple street, where the school children had met for the Epiphany festival. The party was on the second floor of the new school building attached to the church. The attendance was very large, and the schoolroom, a large hall quite as large but not so wide as Corinthian, is divided into three compartments by two glass folding doors, was densely packed by little people enjoying the music. At about 9 o'clock a greater number crowded to the front compartment, where the sale tables were, as is customary in festivals and fairs. There was no unusual movement to cause excitement, and the crowd eagerly listening to a melodeon, was in one instant, without a breath of warning, compressed into one struggling, shrieking mass of humanity. As the floor sank, a blinding cloud of dust arose, obscuring the view of those in the adjoining compartments, who were expecting the whole building to sink, so fearful was the noise and confusion. The front compartment, let it be understood, was the only one that fell, the floor falling convexly, or as a funnel, at the center of which a slender iron column served as a support to the floor above, the floor which fell being supported by a similar column, and the lower floor also by one which rested on a brick abutment. Here seems to have been the cause of the disaster, as the column which supported the first floor, on which were but a few people, crushed out the mason work, and the second floor losing its central support, fell with the weight of several hundred people upon it. A scene of appalling agony followed the catastrophe, those who were in the upper part of the school where the floor remained intact made a frantic plunge for the stairway, women shrieking and sobbing for little ones, and distracted fathers searching wildly for missing children. Many were crushed in the tumultuous passage, and others rendered desperate by the agonizing supplications of friends and relatives, threw themselves from the windows in a mad endeavor to get at the shrieking, and mangled forms in the vortex, so to speak, of the crushed floor. At this time the bell rang the alarm, and Mr. George G. Cooper, of the Union, coming to his door on Kent street, nearly a quarter of a mile off, heard quite distinctly the hoarse murmur of affright and terror.

With his aid and that of the police, the work of rescue began, and a series of sights that froze the very manhood in the veins of the strongest followed. Those who were of the party were so paralyzed with terror, that they were unfit to render the slightest assistance, and those attracted to the scene of woe, were the only ones capable of aiding, systematically, the unfortunates. By the aid of the doorkeeper, Jacob Frank, the group, crushed by the iron column in the center, were slowly extricated and identified. And then was seen a woeful and distressing sight. Barnard Donner, a young German, lay with his wife clasping him, both in the rigid agony of death, crushed and mangled, but recognizable. In this spot lay in a huddled mass under the melodeon and supporting column, twenty-five crushed bodies, eight stark and dead. The hands of the strongest trembled, and the groans of strong men rent the air, while women on the outside clamored and wailed for their little ones. Slowly the dead and wounded were taken to the priest's house and to the church, but a step from the fatal spot. As each body was carried from the spot, terrified inquirers would rush and tear their way to see if kindred or friends were the sufferers.

At the earliest moment practicable, the crushed forms were placed tenderly in the chamber of the priest, and in the contiguous houses, where the kindest attention and solicitude were shown by the occupants. The report by this time had spread rapidly, and eager crowds, with pallid faces and bloodless lips, pressed hurriedly to the couches of the sufferers, dreading lest a near one and dear one might lie stretched in death, or in the agony of crushed and mangled helplessness. So unnerving was the scene that the police were out of very kindliness forced to refuse admittance to the distracted throng. Shrieks and wailing were heard on all sides as little ones sought for missing parents, and parents sought dazedly for the children known to be in the fatal building. In the priest's house the scenes were cruelly touching. On one table, ghastly and rigid, lay the forms of two dead women, Mrs. Rinck and Katie Lawrence, the one nearly three score, the other but fifteen, with heads crushed and bloody, and faces clotted with their own gore, awful visions of sudden and instantaneous death. These two bodies were perfectly limp, and not a bone in the body remains uncrushed. In the next room lay Mr. David C. Way, who can hardly recover, cared for kindly by a couple of the city doctors. On the floor a little creature lay groaning and sobbing with a broken arm. Every attention possible was being paid these unhappy sufferers. In still another room, and old man, Geo. Ropsa, lay on the floor, no relatives to mourn or care for him, but over him sat a sad tearful woman rocking mournfully over the stranger who was her lodger. His face was peaceful, and save the bandage which upheld his jaw, one would have imagined him sleeping. Beyond him on the floor was the most pathetic of all the night's bloody work. A little girl, with bloody, swollen features, lay in the painful attitude of one who had struggled for life. Black purple streaks disfigured the face, and the mouth was compressed in unutterable agony. Her head, covered with flaxen curls, was dabbled with her own life blood, and her hands still retained a clotted mat of hair, pulled from the poor head in the awful struggle with death. This was the girl, Maggie Wiess. She lay desolately in the corner, unmourned and unnoticed save by the curious. Suddenly a girlish figure gained admittance, and rushing frenziedly to the little dead form, gave a piercing shriek of woeful recognition, threw herself beside the dead form, kissing the cold, bloody lips, and wailing out, Oh! Maggie! Oh! my God, Maggie, what will our father say? What will he say? at the same time caressing the little bloody form. At last, exhausted by her intense grief, the frenzied little one sunk into a sort of collapse, and rocked and sobbed convulsively till even this state was succeeded by a sort of stupor. In the chamber above lay Mrs. Fuchs, a lady venerable with years, and wounded nigh unto death, both limbs being broken, and an arm either broken or paralyzed. There were, it will be seen, four dead bodies in the priest's house, and three either mortally or seriously wounded. In the church, which was thrown open, an agitated mass swayed, some to see with awful forebodings, others to see with melancholy curiosity. Laying in one seat, still closely beside each other, as in the crash of destruction, lay the shattered forms of Barnard Donner and wife. The tender thoughtfulness of kindly spectators had covered the ghastly nakedness, the bodies having been entirely denuded of clothing. The bodies were mangled frightfully, deep gashes were plowed in bloody furrows across the faces, rendering recognition next to impossible. The saddest of this scene is that which opens at the afflicted home. There four little children lay in their beds, awaiting the dear ones who should never again come. Late in the night the two forms were taken from the church, and before this the little ones have learned their grievous loss. Immediately opposite the school, at Mr. Tanner's, lay the bodies of Miss Emma Beers and Mrs. Catharine Spairl. The former, a Miss of thirteen, the adopted daughter of Charles G. Beers, was taken to the festival by a servant, who was quite badly wounded also. Miss Beers lay stark and rigid, her face black and ridged with scars, as though lashed by pitiless thongs. Mr. Beers was from town, and no one seemed to have sent for the mother of the unfortunate child. In a room adjoining lay the last of the victims, Mrs. Spairl, whose husband, curious to say, was barely saved from a similar accident by the falling of a building in town. The gray hair of the woman fell in thin bloody clots about her forehead and peacefully closed eyes, with a tearful calmness and pathos, trying for the strongest to see without tears.

So much for the dead; they are beyond even our sympathy. But there are still remaining the unfortunates who were happy enough, or unhappy perhaps, to escape with the broken limbs and fearful contusions. All the aid that medical experience could offer was promptly and efficiently rendered by physicians, who in immense numbers were on the spot with wonderful alacrity. Dismay and sorrow were the chief features of the scene, and from these the most coherent and accurate story could not be expected; but we have embodied substantially the sights and events that were personally brought to our notice during a pretty thorough investigation of the accident and its results. As the night wore on the excitement did not perceptibly diminish, and excited and eager throngs sought the various resting places of the wounded. The old man, Mr. Popp, about 11 o'clock was carried from the Priest's house, ghastly and limp, and placed in a common sleigh to be carried to his home. The whole neighborhood was in distress and terror, as there are but few who had not some relative or friend at the festival.

These are the bloody pictures of a few short hours, and though hurriedly and inadequately painted, none can fail to catch the fleeting vision of death as it is photographed in the mangled dead of the night's holocaust.

The policemen and firemen were on the scene, and worked with their usual efficiency and vigor.

Coroners Harder and Morrison will hold an inquest to-day.

Who is responsible for this sad and fearful calamity it is not our province, at this time, to determine. As we have before said, the construction of the building was defective, and utterly unfit for the purpose for which it was designed. It was even unsafe as a place for four or five hundred children to assemble daily, not to say, to sustain the immense weight of probably two thousand persons, as it was compelled to last night.

THE TREASURY RING.

How Profits are Made—The American Banking House of London—Congressional Inquiry about Treasury Sales of Gold Not Answered—The Foreign Loan Scheme.

Correspondence New York Herald.]

WASHINGTON, January 4.—The small coterie of stock brokers known as the Treasury ring, who have, greatly to their own profit, been alternately bulling and bearing the entire industrial interests of the nation since 1861 by secretly manipulating the national debt and contents of our national Treasury, evidently begin to scent the approach of reform and are preparing to prevent it, which they may be able to do unless their designs are frustrated between this and the 4th of March, the efforts of the next administration to the contrary notwithstanding.

All the ring has to do to accomplish its object is to prevent the passage of any law prohibiting Government officials of any grade from secretly manipulating the national debt, as Secretary McCulloch has been doing all along, and to procure the passage of a law authorizing a foreign loan with a Government agency in London or Frankfort. Then start the long talked of new great American banking house in London, with Secretary McCulloch at its head, and they can laugh at reform for the next four years, taking, meanwhile, $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 more from a tax burdened people.

In regard to the new American banking house in London, with Mr. McCulloch at its head, "provided certain matters now in adjustment"—understood to be the contemplated foreign loan bill—"turns out satisfactorily," I do not learn that it has been given up, but, on the contrary, certain very significant facts seem to indicate that it may yet be brought about.

On the 25th of May last, Hon. Morton C. Hunter, of Indiana, offered the following resolution of inquiry in the House, which was adopted without opposition:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to inform this House what amount of money, in gold, is deposited by the Treasury or State Departments with bankers and brokers, giving the name of each, in London or elsewhere outside the boundary of the United States, stating also the amounts of such deposits on the 1st day of January and July of each year since 1860; the rates of interest paid thereon, if any, and what rate of commission is charged for keeping the accounts and paying the drafts of the United States drawn against such deposits, and what disposition has been made of said interest.

This resolution, it will be seen, was drawn by Mr. Hunter, who makes thorough work of whatever he undertakes, with extraordinary care; evidently with the design of preventing our artful Secretary of the Treasury from making an evasive reply. The country knows by expensive experience that Mr. McCulloch's forte is secret manipulations and artful dodging. Take, for example, his reply to the House resolution asking the amount of United States deposits in national banks; it consisted of thirty pages of figures, and it was not until your correspondent expended twenty-five dollars to get them footed up and published the result in the Herald, of April 25, that Congress and the people were a whit wiser for Mr. McCulloch's so-called reply.

In regard to Mr. Hunter's resolution, above quoted, I cannot find that the Secretary of the Treasury has made any reply whatever, though I have looked the House records over with care. Nor can I find any one who has heard of anything like a reply, verbal or otherwise. The amount of the people's gold on deposit, free of interest, with Mr. McCulloch's favorites in London and other European cities, cannot, therefore, be known, except to the treasury ring. Some estimate it at $800,000, and others, usually well informed upon such subjects, put it as high as $3,000,000. Would not it make a nice nest egg for the new American banking house in London? No wonder Mr. McCulloch is disinclined to let the people's Representatives know the amount.

In regard to the ring's scheme of a foreign loan, with a United States financial agent in London, it would seem that a form of bond good enough for American citizens might answer for our foreign friends. They certainly think so. Galignani, of December 19th, informs its patrons that:

"The project of the United States to issue a five per cent. stock, payable in London and Frankfort, for redeeming six per cents, is again, it appears, under discussion; but the quotation of such a stock, it is said, will be strenuously resisted, as the people here look to the existence of bonds equally marketable at New York and in Europe as the best guarantee against the designs of any party that might be disposed to tamper with the public faith. Doubtless, those brokers connected with Mr. McCulloch desire to bring this manipulation forward while he is in power."

It will be seen by this that our foreign neigbors are up to Treasury ring tricks, and that the proposed foreign loan will be exceedingly unpopular. This would, however, be no objection in a ring point of view, as it would enable our general agent to request from the Government a trifling "commission" of one-half of one per cent. to "popularize" the loan. Half of one per cent. on $2,000,000,000 with a chance to make three times as much by sudden fluctuations of property, and taking early advantage thereof, is not to be found in every day operations.

In fact, it is the ring's power, exercised for years past, of constantly changing the value of not only the entire property, but the labor interest of the nation, that constitutes the great objection to their operations. The taking of $25,000,000 from the people in the shape of commissions, profits on manipulations, etc., is certainly bad enough, but it can be estimated. Their other operations damage the country beyond all estimate.

WHAT'S TRUMPS!

The Bloody Sequel to a Game of Cards.

Correspondence Louisville Courier-Journal.]

HENRYVILLE, IND., January 11, 1869.
Another very serious cutting affray occurred in this place on Saturday night, January 9th, at ten o'clock. The affair occurred about as follows: Five men—David Laymond, Wm. Steward, Gregg Powell, James Chapple and John Badger—went to the school-house for the purpose of gambling, and while playing cards a dispute arose, whereupon David Laymond got up from the table, drew a large bowie-knife and cut Chapple in the right side, making a wound five and a half inches long, the knife entering the cavity of the abdomen and making a wound one and a half inches long in the liver—the liver protruding from the wound. Laymond then extinguished the light, and made an attack on John Badger, stabbing him between the shoulders, the knife passing between the ribs and entering the right lung. He also stabbed him twice in the left shoulder and arm, the knife entering at the top of the shoulder and coming out in the armpit, causing a very serious wound. Dr. Ferguson was called immediately, and arrested the hemorrhage and dressed the wounds. There is no hope of Mr. Chapple's recovery. Badger is doing well, with every prospect of a speedy recovery. The desperado succeeded in making his escape.

NOT A GIRL OF THE PERIOD.

Vinnie Ream don't believe in Women's Suffrage.

A "Woman's Rights" Creetur Did for Her.

Washington Correspondence of the Missouri Democrat.]

A gentleman who was conversant with the facts, or near by at the time, told me of this scene, which happened not long ago in the studio of little Vinnie Ream.

Miss Vinnie, discovered in her artistic dress, elaborating her statue of Lincoln. To her enter Cadie Stanton, and the ceremony of an introduction is effected by a third party. Miss Stanton produces a long roll of petition, on the female question of course, and says, in her large, benignant way;

"Child, we wish your name here."

Miss Vinnie looks it over a minute, till she discovers that it is a plan to move on the works of man, the monster.

"Oh, no, Miss Stanton, I will not sign this. I don't wish publicity, and I am not of your thinking on this question."

"It enters into your interests. It concerns the recognition of woman, and woman's labor under the Government."

"I am not a woman's rights advocate, ma'am."

"Why, child!" cried Miss Stanton, "you are a working girl, getting your bread by your own hands! If you do not help yourself and us, how can woman help you?"

"Miss Stanton," said Vinnie Ream, bitterly, "no help has any woman ever given me here. From Grace Greenwood to Miss Swisshelm, they have all sought to strike me down. Mrs. Calhoun writes to the Tribune that she has not seen any of my work, but that she knows it is bad. Mrs. Ann S. Stephens goes to Thaddeus Stevens and among Congressmen, asking them not to give my studio back. Mrs. Clemme Ames—all of them—can find no larger occupation than attacking a poor little girl, and their venom—I never offended one of them—has extended to personally canvassing against me. No, Madam! Driven out of the wish of their patronage and co-operation, I will be befriended by gentlemen only; for, whilst I never got any justice from woman, I was never treated meanly by man."

"I know Mrs. Swisshelm," says Mrs. Stanton; she is a friend of mine, and prominent in this movement."

"I forbear to enumerate," said Vinnie Ream, "though I will not say they did not wound me to the heart, the many malignant, vulgar and unprovoked things she wrote against me and published.' Then they were sent to me and to my friends. They aimed higher than my profession—at my character and life."

"Grace Greenwood also wrote against you?"

"Yes, Madame, in the Advance she upbraided my patrons and called me a child, asking Congress to pay my school bills, but take me away from sculpture, adding that if any work was to be given out, it should be given to 'that Roman matron, Mrs. Ames,' and Mrs. Ames is Grace Greenwood's sister."

"Mrs. Stephens was no more considerate?"

"She, Madame, not only talked against me—a stranger to her—whenever she could get a group to listen, but she made a personal visit to Thaddeus Stevens to beg him to take away my studio."

"What is she doing?" said Mr. Stevens.

"Decorating her studio with flowers, wearing long hair, attracting the men, and thereby lobbying."

"Well," said Mr. Stevens, "it seems to me that you are around here a good deal, Mrs. Stephens, if talking to Congressmen is lobbying. I have never seen Miss Ream at all."

"Oh!" cried Mrs. Stephens, "no girl can keep chaste and pure with three hundred wretched men around her."

"Well," said Mr. Stevens, "out of all the three hundred there has never been an effort to do as much harm to Miss Ream as one woman can make."

"So he took up his crutch, hobbled over to see me, befriended me immediately and boldly, and died my friend.

"Mrs. Stanton, the men have more heart for my sex than the women. Their jealousy is at least as large as emulation. Repelled by wrongs, in the way I have stated, I was compelled to learn the generosity of men, and I do not regret the lesson."

Miss Stanton, said my informant, proved an amiable exception, for she always afterward spoke well of Vinnie Ream in her newspaper.

It is true that a good deal of aspersion has been foully dealt at little Ream. The women have never been able to get over the appropriation Congress made her. These literary women, any way, are the most reckless Bohemians.

No letters from this city were ever more absolutely wild with causeless spleen than Calhoun's aforenamed. She "ran a muck" in Washington, and yet understood nothing about it. Swisshelm, searching for victims, got afoul of Mrs. Sprague dreadfully last year and raised such indignation that even her undaunted mettle was abashed. Mrs. Ann S. Stephens is suing somebody for libel and appreciating the pleasures of being abused in print. "The Roman Matron" is here, but without a Government commission yet. Little Ream is the Venus Victrix. She has met the enemy and they are hers. Wherever deficient in talent, there women's tongues raised her compensating sympathy. I am not acquainted with her, for she is indeed as little conspicuous as any woman in Washington; but her triumph seems to be complete, and somebody says she is to go to Rome next year. Doubtless her female friends will anticipate her with scandal, but Rome is not the prude that Washington is. The boarding house there is not enthroned on the Mons Capitolinus.

NO MAN AT ALL.

How Lucy Stone Bosses Her Husband.

Correspondence Chicago Tribune.]

In 1855 she was married to Henry B. Blackwell, an Englishman by birth, who was then a hardware merchant in Cincinnati, Ohio, and who had for years been identified with the anti-slavery cause. He was a well educated, honorable gentleman, and had long been an ardent admirer of the brave little woman, who had never suspected an attachment of a warmer sort. When he proposed to her he said he wished her to become his wife on her own terms. She consented; her terms being the retention of her maiden name, and the renunciation on his part of all his legal rights and authority as a husband.

Such a union could not have been formidable to her, whatever it might have been to him. Their marriage was nothing more than an agreement to live together while they were agreeable to each other, and as there were few bonds there was little temptation to break them. Perhaps such unions might be repeated to advantage between persons who feel uncertain of a harmonious future.

Lucy Stone and her husband—say those who ought to know—have never repented. They have lived very happily together for thirteen years, and are likely to do so to the last. They have but one child, a daughter, and have since their marriage resided most of the time at West Bloomfield, New Jersey, in the strictest retirement.

Lucy Stone—the name Mrs. Blackwell always offends her—is very far from handsome. She is small in stature, has gray eyes, dark brown hair, a well shaped mouth, and handsome teeth. Her complexion is so florid as to indicate rusticity, and her features are not at all regular or expressive of high breeding. Hers is a strong face, and when lighted up loses much of its homeliness, and strikes you as intellectual. Her charm is in her voice. Turn away from her, and you can well imagine she is lovely. Look at her critically, and you almost forget the sweet tones that have so much to do with her power of persuasion. She is extremely kind-hearted and benevolent, and never neglects an opportunity to do good. She has been much misrepresented, ridiculed and abused, but no one who knows her will say she is not a true woman, whose aims and purposes have always been in the direction of justice, humanity and right.

TWO TRAGEDIES.

Suicide at Rogersville Junction.

Accidental Death at Chattanooga.

From the Press and Herald, of Saturday, we extract the following particulars of two tragedies which occurred on the same day last week:

On Wednesday, Mr. James Walker, a well known citizen, committed suicide near Rogersville Junction, by blowing out his brains with a pistol. We learn from a correspondent that the deceased had been a man of intemperate habits, to such an extent as to produce a separation between himself and wife. After the separation, he strictly refrained from drink, and made repeated overtures to his wife to return to him, which she persisted in declining. Although he still adhered to a temperate life, he found himself involved in debt, and as he said himself "compelled to live a life of misery." Having, on Wednesday, induced his daughter to go to a neighboring house on some errand, he deliberately began to set his house in order. He placed his pocket-book and money in a convenient drawer, put his keys where they could be easily found, and arranged the fire so that it could do no damage before his daughter returned—then took his pistol from beneath the pillow, where he always kept it, walked out into the porch, sat down, and shot himself through the head. When his daughter returned, he was cold in death—his pistol lying at his feet, and his skull horribly blackened and crushed by the powder and ball.

On Wednesday afternoon, 6th inst., Mr. Wm. King, a prominent citizen of Chattanooga, came to his death under the following circumstances, as we gather them from the Republican. He was sitting in his dining room, cleaning and repairing his rifle. His sister came into the room, when he told her he would have to take his gun to the smith's to have it repaired. She then left him, and joined her sister, Mrs. Crutchfield, in another room, who invited Miss King to accompany her a shopping. While preparing themselves for the walk, they heard the report of the fatal gun, but supposed it was a chair which had fallen over. When they were ready to start, Miss King told her sister that she never left the house without first informing her brother, and proceeded to the dining room to tell him she was going out. She opened the door and observed him lying on the sofa with his gun by his side, but supposed that he had merely fallen asleep. She called his name, but received no answer. She called a second and third time, but alas! no answer. The report of the gun which she supposed to be the falling of a chair was comprehended—her brother was dead—had killed himself accidentally.

The deceased was in his thirty-seventh year, and a native of McMinn county. He was one of the owners of the Discount and Deposit Bank of Chattanooga, and was a brother of Maj. Horace King, of this city.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.—The Blood Horse Association of Nashville, held an election on Saturday last for officers for the ensuing year. The election resulted as follows: W. H. Johnson, President; Gen. W. G. Harding, Col. B. F. Cockrill, Col. Geo. S. Kinney, Vice-Presidents; Col. R. B. Cheatham, Secretary; Chas. W. Hanmer, Treasurer. Messrs. Ab. Turner, President W. H. Johnson, and Col. Zeb. Ward were appointed an Executive Committee, to serve for the ensuing twelve months, and to have entire jurisdiction of the track and all appurtenances thereto, and the management of all privileges, etc., belonging to the track. On motion of Gen. Harding it was unanimously resolved that the entrance fee to Club Purses shall be five per cent., applicable alike to members of the club and to strangers. Messrs. Patterson, Harding and Ward were appointed a committee to arrange a programme for the Spring meeting, to report at the monthly meeting on the last Saturday in February.

SIMPSON.

The Railroad ring has revived. Those who comprise that peculiar body are determined to possess themselves, if possible, of the city's stock in the Tennessee and the Little Rock Railroads. They have secured the services of SIMPSON. Whether SIMPSON of the sign of the three balls, SIMPSON, my uncle, or not, we cannot say; but we do know that he is SIMPSON, of New York; an impecunious SIMPSON, who pressingly demands his pound of flesh, and will not be satisfied with anything less. In our youth we studied book-keeping, and among the mysteries of that science we remember the names of JOHN DOE and RICHARD ROE and JOHN SIMPSON. This last was to us always the puzzle in the straightening of our accounts. Whenever we were near right, SIMPSON would confront us, and immediately we were nonplussed, beaten, defeated, and had to go down. One day we bethought us to ask our seedy-looking schoolmaster who this SIMPSON was. He had bothered us so much in the inception of our studies that we determined, if possible, to know the fellow, have a talk with him, and ask him how he managed always to occupy the position of a third party. It is needless to say that the answer of the master as to SIMPSON was as mysterious as the unexplained passages of the book of Mormon; and that until this good hour SIMPSON remains to us a myth. Not being an accountant we lost sight of SIMPSON for years. Judge of our surprise, yesterday, on reading an advertisement, of the United States Marshal, for the sale of the city's stock in two important railroads, wherein the absurd SIMPSON turns up plaintiff. When we had supposed the railroad ring defeated, and the city's stock secure from the repeated onslaughts of that singular combination, lo, and behold! SIMPSON, the curse of our youth, SIMPSON, the unexplained, appears as the factotum of the ring. Well, of course, we are down on SIMPSON. The connection of the wretch who had made so many miserable hours for us, with this troublesome, impudent and impertinent ring, steels our hearts against him, and determines a future lifelong opposition to him and to his. We are, therefore, opposed to SIMPSON. We believe that he is only another person, for the many persons who have tried for this stock. We don't believe that TOMENY, the United States Marshal, even so much as knows him. He won't swear that he knows SIMPSON. The First National Bank don't know SIMPSON; GREENLAW don't know SIMPSON; TATE or WEST don't know SIMPSON. SIMPSON means the 'ring.' We, therefore, advise the city to beware of SIMPSON. We advise the city at its meeting this evening, to look out for solvent and honest men, who will, if the city cannot pay, step into its shoes, and by the expenditure of eleven or twelve thousand dollars save this stock for the people. The United States Marshal might have levied on the engine-house on Poplar street, to satisfy this judgment of $11,000—it is worth $22,000 by general consent—but TOMENY is for SIMPSON, and SIMPSON is the ring. We know there are parties here who will help the city in this, her hour of extremity; and help her without price and without interest. To these the Board of Aldermen should look for help, if provision for the emergency cannot be made in any other way. We demand, in the name of the people, that this shall be done. SIMPSON (the "ring") must be defeated. This is his last chance. The rascal calculates upon the poverty of Memphis. He thinks she is in extremis. She ain't. She can carry her load if only guaranteed the "hands off" of SIMPSON (the "ring.") If the Board of Aldermen don't know their man, if they can't see their way clear of this SIMPSON (the "ring") they must not fail to apply to us. We can put them on the track of a citizen who does not fear SIMPSON; who has the currency, and won't be chary of lending it to the people, among whom his lot has been cast. The new Board must look up this large-hearted citizen, and from him secure the aid necessary to the prevention of the iniquity contemplated by SIMPSON.

BY letter from London we learn that ex-President JEFFERSON DAVIS and wife have been making the tour of Ireland, where they were warmly welcomed by the hospitable people. At Dublin they were the guests of the Lord Lieutenant, dined with him and participated in an official reception or levee, at the town palace of his Excellency. Mr. DAVIS, and his estimable lady, the chronicler says, will spend the remainder of the winter in the South of France, where the great statesman has been ordered by his physician for his health's sake.

WE learn from reliable authority, that Messrs. W. T. BROWNE, E. M. YERGER and D. K. MCRAE have been employed to defend the citizens of Arkansas, now under arrest, and held by the militia for trial before a court-martial which, it is expected, will assemble at Marion to-day. The known legal ability of these gentlemen gives the friends of the prisoners hope of their speedy release from unjust imprisonment, and full and complete restoration to their rights as citizens.

BUTLER was the only member from Tennessee who voted for the repeal of the tenure-of-office law. Messrs. ARNELL, MAYNARD, MULLINS, STOKES and TRIMBLE voted and spoke fiercely and bitterly against the repeal. They seem to lack confidence in Gen. GRANT, notwithstanding the friends of one of them (MAYNARD) were urging his appointment to a place in GRANT'S Cabinet.

A WASHINGTON special of Wednesday gives the decision of the Supreme Court (rendered on Tuesday) in a railroad case of considerable interest, in which two Cincinnatians, Messrs. C. M. WEST and TORRENCE were the parties. The city of Aurora, Ind., subscribed $50,000 to the stock of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Company, and issued $50,000 in bonds to the railroad company, in payment of the subscriptions. These bonds were purchased by WEST and TORRENCE from the railroad company several years ago. Maj. TORRENCE brought suit in the Circuit Court for Dearborn county, Ind., against the city of Aurora upon the coupons for interest then due. In defense of this suit the city set up a want of power in the city to make the subscription, and especially the want of such a vote of the citizens as was necessary to authorize the Common Council of the city to subscribe for the stock and issue the bonds. After a full hearing the Court in Indiana gave judgment for WEST and TORRENCE. Other coupons having subsequently fallen due, and payment being refused, WEST and TORRENCE brought another suit in the United States Court for Indiana. The city attempted to set up in defense of this suit the same matters they had set up in the former case and some other defenses besides. The United States Court, however, held that suit in the second act of coupons was in fact upon the same cause of action as the first case, and that the city was excluded by the first judgment from setting up any defense which they set up in the first suit, or which they might have set up, and gave judgment on that ground for WEST and TORRENCE. Thereupon the city brought the case to the Supreme Court of the United States, by writ of error, and it was argued here by Mr. T. D. LINCOLN for the city and Mr. HENRY STANBERY for WEST and TORRENCE. The decision of the Supreme Court affirms the judgment of the United States District Court, that the first judgment in the State Court was conclusive, and accordingly judgment was given for WEST and TORRENCE.

FROM the New Orleans Times of Wednesday, we learn that Gen. DULCE, the Captain General of Cuba, is evidently adopting extraordinary measures to allay the rebellion in that Island. He has already had an interview with the leaders of the Liberal party in Havana and has induced them to send a deputation to the insurgents, tendering peace upon the most advantageous terms. The mere fact of the deputation starting for the seat of hostilities is conclusive evidence that the reforms offered are of no ordinary character and are calculated to raise Cuba to an equality of representation in the Junta at Madrid with every other Spanish province. Whether this will satisfy the already successful leaders of the insurrection remains to be seen, but that the terms will be accepted is by no means improbable. The fact of Gen. DULCE's having married a native Creole lady, whose former husband was a prominent Liberal, will have weight with the insurgents. At all events, he seems to recognize the proper importance of the outbreak, and his disposition to conciliate testifies more to its magnitude than the desultory reports of the military operations received in this country up to the present time. All friends of popular liberty will look forward to the result of the proposed interview with anxiety and interest.

THE World's Washington correspondent is responsible for the following, which we think about as true of Gen. GRANT as anything his Radical friends have recently published of him. He says that in a recent conversation GRANT remarked: "I never was in favor of the "tenure-of-office bill; while I am no "lawyer, and not qualified to judge of "the constitutional power of Congress to "pass such a bill, I accept the opinion "of the Judiciary Committee on that "subject. I believe I owe my election "more to the confidence of the American "people in my patriotism and integrity "than to any knowledge of mine on reconstruction, suffrage or amnesty. The "people expect me to save them from "wholesale robbery by officials; to see "the laws executed, and the revenues "faithfully collected. So help me God, I "will do it or resign. An Executive officer satisfied of his inability to execute "the laws, is unworthy the respect of his "fellow-citizens, if he continues to hold "office." This we should take to be a plain notification to the Radicals who have been filling the offices and have engaged in the wholesale robbery alluded to. They should take warning, and make preparations accordingly.

IN the House of Representatives of Kentucky, on Monday last, a resolution was passed respectfully requesting Congress to "remove all the political disabilities which may have attached to "any of the citizens of this State by virtue of the fourteenth constitutional "amendment. True to the ancient faith "and teaching of her illustrious Clay, "Kentucky will defend the Constitution "and the Union as in the past, but she "now desires, above all things, to see "universal harmony, fraternity and concord prevail throughout the entire republic, and she believes that it can and "will be more surely accomplished by "universal amnesty and forgiveness." Our Legislature should take the hint, enfranchise all the citizens of the State and assist the noble and magnanimous Kentuckians in their effort to restore the peace for which all have looked since the war. RYDER and RICHARDS should "try, try again."

THE Radical Senators at Washington met in caucus on the 7th for the consideration of general matters, but after a long session, in which the speakers "expressed views much at variance," they adjourned without agreeing upon a definite policy upon the financial or any other question. The Washington Chronicle, alluding to the caucus, says "it may be that another will be held at no remote period;" but others as well informed as that journal say "this is the last caucus the Radicals will ever hold upon a public measure other than mere devices to further punish those they know to be hopelessly within their power, and even in this respect they will find themselves not altogether harmonious."

A WASHINGTON correspondent of the Athens (Ga.) Southern Watchman, said to be Col. CHRISTY, the editor of that paper, and representative in Congress elect from that District of Georgia, writes as follows about the prospects of Georgia in Congress:

While my individual opinion is, that no legislation whatever is needed, and while I find many members of Congress leaning in that direction, I cannot ignore the fact that a majority seem determined to do something. Hence, I think that as a compromise between the extremists and non-actionists, moderate measures may be agreed upon. With a certain class, the status of "the negro" seems to be the bone of contention. His exclusion from the Legislature has aroused their ire, and they are determined to have the question settled whether he shall hold office or not. To this end, it is proposed by the "moderates" that the constitutional convention shall reassemble solely for the purpose of passing a declaratory ordinance on this subject. A case might be brought before your Supreme Court, which would settle the question at once. To satisfy the clamor raised by those who have so persistently talked of "rebel outrages" and the alleged impossibility of Union men obtaining justice in some sections of the State, it is proposed to give the United States Courts concurrent jurisdiction in cases where parties will swear they cannot get justice in the State Courts. Whether this policy will be adopted, or that of the extremists—or, what is better, the matter left to regulate itself—no one can now pretend to say. The rumor that Gen. Grant is opposed to further reconstruction, which is general, is, I have good reason for believing, well founded. I am not at liberty to publish the facts on which this opinion is based, but think they are reliable.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, January 14.—Gen. Gillem was before the Reconstruction Committee to-day, and reiterated the statements in his official report that there was a fair vote in Mississippi when the Constitution was rejected.

The Committee on Ways and Means considered the subject of duty on steel this morning, but came to no conclusion, and adjourned till Monday.

The Southern militia bill was presented to the President on Tuesday for his consideration.

Gen. Grant himself wrote the following: "Gen. Grant authorizes the statement that the articles written by an occasional correspondent of the New York World, and purporting to relate conversations or furnish opinions of his in regard to public men and public matters, are utterly without foundation. No human being has ever listened to or shared such conversations as those reported. Gen. Grant would not deem it becoming in him to contradict the articles in question if they simply affected himself, but as they are evidently written with a view to embroil his relations with prominent gentlemen, most of whom are his personal or political friends, or at least outrage their just sensibilities, and he deviates from his usual course in this instance and pronounces the articles alluded to incorrect, indelicate and impertinent in an extraordinary degree."

The delegates to the National Bricklayers Union, now in session here, were introduced to the President this afternoon. Hon. S. F. Carey performed the ceremony of introduction in a few pertinent remarks. The President in response expressed himself pleased at the compliment of their visit, and said that, without making a speech, he would refer to his record for an illustration of his respect for labor and industrial interests. The delegation were then individually introduced.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, January 14.—Andrew Peel, a dry goods merchant from the West, was chloroformed while asleep at the Earl House last night, and robbed of $5000.

The Herman took $200,000 in specie.

The Sub-Treasury balance is $8,250,000.

The representatives of the insurance companies outside of New York city, held a meeting at the St. Nicholas Hotel to take measures against the rebate system, adopted by the fire underwriters of New York, which operates greatly to their disadvantage.

The defendants in the whisky case, known as Blaisdell, Rockwell and McLaren, on the motion of the District Attorney, were committed to close confinement.

The Herald's London special says dispatches to-day, from Madrid, state that one of Maximilian's Mexican generals is secretly engaged in that city making arrangements with a number of Spanish scientific and military officers with a view of placing Count Gergenti, a brother of the ex King of Naples, on the throne of Mexico. Two hundred officers of high rank are wanted to carry the movement into execution. Their pay will be secured to them from the time when they enter upon their duties. Several of the European governments will assist the General in this enterprise. Prim grants a number of officers desirous of joining unestimated leave of absence for the purpose of taking part in the expedition. Napoleon, it is said, secretly favors the project.

GEORGIA.

SAVANNAH, January 14.—The News publishes a report of the convention held by its editors and negroes, and concerning the Ogeechee troubles. The negroes say Col. Williams, whose report was forwarded by Gen. Sibley, only visited one plantation, three miles from the scene of disturbance, and did not go to other places to ascertain the correctness of the report concerning the outrages. He asked no questions except whether they had any complaints to make against the planters; whether they were in arms against the United States, and what injury had been done them by the Sheriff's posse. He asked no questions about resistance to or robbery of the Sheriff. He went down at night, returned before daylight, and was accompanied, it is reported, by one of the leading disturbers of the peace of Savannah. The reported party was arrested by the negroes, and released upon Williams explaining who he was.

Sheriff Dooner publishes a card denying Col. Williams' statement.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, January, 14.—The contest for the United States Senatorship from Wisconsin is between Carpenter and Washburne.

In Nashville, Dupage county, Ill., on Tuesday night, James Laird, Deputy U. S. Marshal, was shot and killed by Chauncey Bailey, as he was entering Mr. Bailey's bed-room. Bailey, suspecting improper intercourse, entrapped the guilty parties by starting on a long journey and returning unexpectedly. The woman had previously eloped with a Universalist minister. The citizens justify the homicide.

ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, January 14.—James Lansing, of Lasalle, formerly a volunteer Lieutenant in the U. S. Navy, calls on all the officers who served in the Western Flotilla and Mississippi Squadron, during the war, to assemble at Cairo on the 14th of February, and form a society similar in character to that of the Army of Tennessee.

J. K. Bear, a telegraph operator at Brownsville, Nebraska, was knocked down and shot twice last night and robbed of $800 Express money.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, January 14, 1869.

SENATE.

Mr. Grimes, from the Naval Committee, reported adversely on the memorial of Commodore Meade, to be restored to the active list, and on his motion it was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Sumner, from the Foreign Committee, reported a bill to carry into effect a decree of the U. S. District Court of Southern New York, in the case of the English schooner Sybil and cargo.

Mr. Norton introduced a bill giving a pension to Mrs. Mary Lincoln, from the date of the death of her husband, the late President of the United States.

Mr. Sumner suggested making the pension $5000 per year, and it was then referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. Doolittle introduced a joint resolution authorizing the President to consent to the laying of one or more telegraphic cables from the shores of any foreign power to those of the United States, provided that such powers will consent to the laying of cables from ours to their shores on reciprocal terms. Referred to the Foreign Committee.

Mr. Sumner introduced a bill to enforce certain provisions of the Fourteenth amendment in relation to disqualification from office.

Mr. Cragin entered a motion to reconsider the vote of yesterday refusing the use of the capitol for the inauguration ball. The Senate then resumed the consideration of the Sue Murphy bill.

During the discussion Mr. Wilson proposed the creation of a Board, consisting of Gens. Meigs, Thomas, Howard and Ekin, to examine and report upon the claims of loyalists, and the same to sit for two years from April next, but without action on the bill the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

The Niagara Ship Canal bill was postponed until after the morning hour by a vote of 70 to 40.

Ashley, from the Committee on Territories, reported a bill to extend the boundaries of Nevada, Minnesota and Nebraska, and the territories of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming.

Washburne, of Illinois, said the bill proposed to dismember Utah, and that before the final action it would be better to await the arrival of the delegate from that territory, who was detained from sickness.

Ashley said that the bill did design interfering with the settled portions of Utah, but was intended to take away so much that there would not be enough left to make a State, and that he would consent to postpone it for two weeks.

Mr. Ashley also reported a bill to secure the purity (!) of elections in the Territories, and to secure protection against illegal voting and fraudulent returns; but the morning hour expired before the subject was disposed of.

Mr. Cook, from the Committee on Elections, reported a resolution that G. W. Anderson is not entitled to the seat from the Ninth Missouri District, and that W. F. Switzer is; and said he would call up the report to-morrow.

The special order was then taken up, and Mr. Vanhorn spoke at length in support of the bill for the construction of a ship canal around the Falls of Niagara.

Mr. Humphries followed, opposing the bill.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, January 14.—A boiler exploded to-day in the jewelry establishment of Caldwell & Co., on the corner of Ninth and Chestnut, completely demolishing the building, damaging Orne's carpet store, and completely burning Howell's paper-hanging warehouse. Seven clerks sleeping in the second story of Caldwell's building barely escaped alive, all being burned. Keeper's Art Gallery was also burned, entailing a loss of valuable paintings. Caldwell's loss is unknown, as a large quantity of valuable documents, which were in the safes, will be recovered. Howell's loss is about $250,000.

LATER.

The entire loss by the fire and explosion this morning will reach nearly $750,000. Two clerks are supposed to have perished.

HAVANA.

HAVANA, January 14.—The following intelligence, just received from Mexico, states that the Governor of San Luis Potosi has been tried by the Legislature, and found guilty of all the charges against him. Great misery prevails among the laborers in some parts of the country on account of the scarcity of money. The Indian war continues in Sonora. There has been a good deal of excitement caused among the Mexicans by artful reports that the treaties with the United States were intended to force the Republic into acknowledgments of debts heavier than she can pay, when, on default of payment, the United States will seize her territory and dismember the country. The States, an opposition journal, had suspended.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

CAIRO, January 14.—Up—Mary Forsyth, Legal Tender, Pauline Carroll, Dacon, Simpson, Homer, 2 p m.; Luminary, 5 p m. The river is stationary. It is raining hard.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—The Clerk, Pilot and Mate of the steamer Gilde, have died of their injuries by the explosion. There have been several other deaths among the wounded at the hospital. Arrived—Steamer Spray. Departed Richmond, Emma No 3, and City of Alton.

FOREIGN.

MADRID, January 14.—The authorities received telegrams yesterday from Captain General Dulce, asking reinforcements for Cuba. He thinks he can suppress the insurrection with 4000 more troops.

LONDON, January 14.—The press of London and Paris almost unanimously condemn the course of Greece, in insisting upon representation in the Conference.

GLASGOW, January 14.—The Prince of Wales theater here was burned last night. No lives lost.

NASHVILLE.

NASHVILLE, January 14.—Joe Callender, a notorious negro horse thief, was taken from the jail at Murfreesboro last night at half past 12 o'clock, by some 15 or 20 Ku-Klux, and carried off. Up to 2 p.m. to-day nothing had been heard as to his fate.

FLORIDA.

TALLAHASSEE, January 14.—The Senate yesterday confirmed Gibbs, as Secretary of State; Meek, Attorney-General; J. A. Adams, as Commissioner of Immigration, vice R E. Austin, resigned, all of whom have been appointed by Gov. Reid since the impeachment last November.

Money—With liberal offerings the money market to day has been easy at 7 per cent. for call, and exceptions at 6 per cent. The receipts of currency from the West are large, and many banks report a glut of national bank notes. Discounts nominally 9@10. Sterling dull at 9¼@9⅜. Gold firm, with an average dealing and no excitement; it opened at 36¼, advanced to 36½, and closed at 36¼@36⅜. The upward course is resisted by foreign bankers. State bonds firm. New Tennessees 69½@69⅝; old 66¾.

New Orleans Market.

NEW ORLEANS, January 14.—Cotton irregular and higher; middlings 28¼@28½c; sales 2800 bales; operations restricted by the weather and light offerings; receipts 1938 bales; exports 802 bales. Gold 36¼@36½. Sterling 48¼@48½. Commercial 47½. New York sight ⅛ discount. Flour dull; superfine $7; XX $7 30; XXX $8@8 25. Corn, white, 77c; yellow 83c. Bran $1 30. Hay dull; prime $24@26. Pork dull at $30 25. Bacon quiet; shoulders 14½c; sides 18¾@19c. Lard dull; tierces 19½c; kegs 20¼@20½c. Sugar, molasses and whisky firm, but quiet and unchanged. It has been raining hard all day.

St. Louis Market.

ST. LOUIS, January 14.—Tobacco nominally unchanged. Flour dull at $5 75@8 25. Wheat very dull. Corn 67@74c. Oats 56@58c. Pork $29 50. Bulk shoulders 12½c; clear sides 16@16½c. Bacon shoulders 13¾@14c; clear sides 17¾@17½c; hams 18c. Bacon loose shoulders 13c; hams 15c; clear sides 16¾@17c. Lard 18¾@19c. Whisky 97c.

AMUSEMENTS.

The very inclement state of the weather last night prevented anything like an average attendance at places of amusement, and, with the exception of the lilliputian soiree of Gen. Tom Thumb and family (which was crowded to suffocation, the houses were very meager, notwithstanding the extraordinary inducements and attractions offered at both the New Memphis and the Greenlaw. It speaks volumes of the taste of the people—or the folly of the managers. Which is it?

NEW MEMPHIS.—Lotta appeared in two roles—as "Po-ca-hon-tas," in John Brougham's glorious travestie of that name, and as Nan, the Good for Nothing. To dilate upon her acting of these parts would be like trying to guild refined gold. Everybody knows Lotta by reputation, and not to have seen her or not to know her argues one's self, if not exactly unknown, at least not much of a theater-goer. Mrs. T. L. Cline made a most charming "Capt. John Smith," and we don't blame Pocahontas, or any body else, for falling in love with her—him, we mean. "Mynheer Rolf" was never more artistically rendered by Joe Jefferson than it was by McWade, and Lanagan was the savage grim old "Powhatan." The other parts were all well sustained, and the affair was a decided success. Of "Nan" we have already spoken. To-night is Lotta's benefit, and of course the house will be crowded.

GREENLAW OPERA HOUSE.—The White Fawn (one of the most clever and amusing burlesques ever gotten up), and Nan the good-for nothing were given at this place of amusement last night. In spite of the attraction of one hundred dollars in cash, which are given away nightly, the house was not full by any means. This company is strictly first-class—not an actor or actress, gymnast athlete, artist or artiste, dancer, danseuse, or vocalist but would pass muster among "stars" or be received well on any boards. The character of their performances are chaste, modest and entertaining; and yet, while within the sounds of their voices, in the very same building, a large hall is crowded until there is not standing room, with people eager to see a collection of lusus naturæ and malformed human beings, they, with all their attractions, cannot draw even a full house. To-night is the benefit of Mrs. Oates and we hope our people will give her a warm and rousing welcome. One hundred dollars will be given away to the holders of tickets in seven prizes. Go and try your luck any way.

GERMAN THEATER.—A German theatrical performance will be given this evening at the Memphis Club Hall, by Mr. Hahn and his troupe, for the benefit of the Memphis Club.

TOM THUMB and his party left town yesterday after having the most successful exhibition that was ever given in Memphis.

Card from A. S Mitchell, President Mississippi River R. R.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER RAILROAD OFFICE, }
MEMPHIS, January 14, 1869. }

Editors Memphis Appeal:

In the kind and complimentary notice of myself in your paper, this morning, republished from Neal's State Gazette (Dyer county), there are some errors of fact which I must promptly correct.

I did not build "the first fifty miles of the Kansas Pacific Railroad (of St. Louis), as stated in the Gazette. That work was done under the able Presidency of Thomas Allen, now President of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad. I was, however, the first Secretary of that company, and its pioneer agent among the people for the first forty miles of its line, obtaining stock and the right of way, and preparing for the advance of the contractors. Neal's statement as to my connection with the first eighty miles (not forty) of the present Union Pacific Railroad line west of the Mississippi river, is correct. That great work was inaugurated by myself and a number of New York and Boston capitalists, and I was chosen to take charge of the same as resident Director and Superintendent, which position, I am always proud to remember, I filled to their entire satisfaction.

I am sorry, Mr. Editor, to appear in print in this connection; but I am wholly unwilling to seem to arrogate a merit not my own. You and the entire public of Memphis can bear me witness that I have not sought to make myself conspicuous in my present position. I have worked patiently and in comparative obscurity, and all the time at my own cost, for several years, to mature the great enterprise I am in charge of—the Mississippi River Railroad. It is now a success, and I am proud of the generous, the earnest, the manly support now given me by the people of Memphis and of Shelby county, and of all the counties on the line of the proposed road.

I have no time to waste in noticing any personal attacks on myself. My noble Board of Directors, embracing some of the most honorable names in West Tennessee, don't need any defense at my hands, or at any body's hands. We are not "picking" at any body else's schemes. We are not trying to build ourselves up by pulling any body else down; We shall encourage and uphold any and all persons who are engaged in trying to construct great works of public improvement for the aggrandisement of Memphis. If we are not treated in like spirit, our detractors must settle with the people of Memphis, whose interests are at stake. Respectfully,
A. S. MITCHELL.

INSURANCE.—It is with no little regret that we see some of our LOCAL companies forced to give way the space they have occupied in our columns to the enterprise and prosperity of competing foreign companies. For some time past a home Life Insurance Company has occupied a prominent corner on our second page. This has been given up, and this morning the coveted space has been taken by Messrs. S. R. Clarke & Co. As we have said, it pains us to see local companies bow before the generosity and enterprise of foreign companies; still we are pleased to see the space occupied by a firm whose claims on Southern patronage are not even second to the managers of the home company alluded to. S. R. Clarke, Esq., Gen. Colton S. Green, and Capt. W. R. Lucas, are too well known to the Southern people as having shared their trials, braved the dangers and made the sacrifices, which compose the capital on which many base their claims for Southern patronage. We may have something more to say on this subject and will close this notice by saying that "THOSE WHO PATRONIZE HOME OR SOUTHERN INSTITUTIONS ARE WORTHY, OR AT LEAST HAVE CLAIMS FOR SOUTHERN PATRONAGE. KU-KLUX.

A STARTLING MYSTERY.

The Masked Brethren Seize a Detective and Make Way With Him.

His Whereabouts Still Unknown.

The Vehm Gericht Revived!

From the Nashville Banner.]

The excitement in the city yesterday, with regard to the seizure and spiriting away of Detective Barmore at Columbia by a band of masked men, about half-past one o'clock in the morning, was general and intense. The streets were rife with rumors as to his fate, but on that point no reliable information had reached Nashville up to a late hour last night.

Some went so far as to say that Barmore had been hung or shot by the Ku-Klux, and that his measure for a coffin had actually been sent to one of our undertakers; others reported that he had not only been laid out, at Columbia, but that his remains had been seen by a gentleman who had arrived on an early train, while many believed the whole thing to be a hoax gotten up by Barmore for a "professional" advertisement; until, finally, the minds of the public became so mystified concerning the matter that toward night all statements regarding it were generally discredited.

That, however, Barmore was taken off the train, at Columbia, early in the morning, by persons in mask, is an indubitable fact, of which we learn the following authentic particulars from the passengers and attaches of the train:

It appears that Barmore having missed the regular train here Monday morning, got on a freight train and went to Pulaski to attend, as a witness, the investigation of the case of a negro, whom he had arrested in this city a few days previous, on the charge of complicity with Alex. Mason, colored, in the robbery of the safe of Fisher & Co., colored, at Pulaski, took a seat in the hindmost coach, doubled himself up and went to sleep, in which condition he remained until the arrival of the train at Columbia at half-past one o'clock in the morning. While the conductor, Mr. Thomas Moore, was handing some ladies out of the car, a man in a robe and mask, who had not before been observed by any one, approached by rapid strides, and asked Mr. Moore to let him pass, which privilege was immediately yielded. This was the only one of the mysterious band whom Mr. Moore saw during the affair. We learn from passengers, however, that the train had no sooner stopped than a masked man was seen at each door, while four others entered the car from the west and opposite side from the depot, through the rear door, passing along the aisle and punching the passengers in the side with their pistols to wake them up, the object being to get a view of their countenances. In this manner they aroused Mr. Henry Nelson, of Murfreesboro, who said to them that he did not think he was the man for whom they were in search. Without paying any attention to the remark, however, they next proceeded to the seat occupied by Barmore, who had his cap drawn down over his eyes, and was fast asleep. They thrust the muzzles of their pistols in his side, and with a very quiet, though determined air, told him to "get up and go along with them, that they desired to converse with him outside." Barmore, without manifesting much surprise, slowly arose from his seat and appeared to find it difficult to use one of his legs, which he said was asleep. After rubbing it with his hands for a very short time he walked out of the car with them without offering the least resistance. One of them remarked to Barmore, when he feigned lameness, that "G—d d—n him, they knew him, and that he could not come that over them."

So quietly and adroitly was the whole affair managed that few even of the passengers who happened to be awake were aware of the terribly mysterious episode which had occurred almost before their very faces.

In the mean time Conductor Moore, ignorant of what was going on, and remembering that it has become rather a habit for such personages to pass through a train at any time, and at almost any station along the road, cried "fall aboard," and rang the bell for the train to move on. As this failed to "have the desired effect," Mr. Moore went to the engineer and asked him why he did not move on. The latter, pointing to two disguised men, with pistols, who stood, silent and gloomy as the grave, on the locomotive, replied that he now had other conductors who directed the movements of the train. The new "Conductors" then asked Mr. Moore if the other masked men had left the train, to which, having no knowledge that there had been any others about, except one he had seen when the train first stopped, he could make no reply. Mr. Moore, however, requested that they would not delay the train. Just at this juncture four or five whistles were distinctly heard some two hundred yards in the rear of the train, at the sound of which the two masked men told Mr. Moore that he could go ahead, leaped from the locomotive and, it is supposed, rejoined their comrades, who were by this time moving on horseback in a southwesterly direction from the depot. That was the last seen of Capt. Barmore!

The passengers state that in addition to the eight disguised men who were actually upon the train, they saw some fifteen or twenty others, in the garb of the mysterious brotherhood, on the opposite side of the train from the depot, between the train on which they were traveling and the accommodation train which stood on a side track. It is supposed that while Barmore's capture was being effected, they kept themselves secreted behind the cars of the latter train. The trampling and snorting of their horses could be heard a short distance off.

Much surprise has been expressed that no further particulars, either as to the incidents connected with Barmore's seizure or his supposed fate, have been received from Columbia. To us the reason is plain enough. The first intimation any one in Columbia had of the affair was through a dispatch to Mr. W. J. Andrews, from the Banner office, at 3:30 p.m., asking him to forward the full details. He replied:

COLUMBIA, January 12, 1862.

To the Editor of the Republican Banner:

I know nothing about it, nor had I heard anything about it.

W. J. ANDREWS.

Fearing that Mr. Andrews had been prevented by business engagements from attending to the matter, we made the same request of Maj. Thos. H. McKinney, who replied, about 9 p.m., as follows:

COLUMBIA, January 12, 1869.

To the Editor of the Republican Banner:

Your dispatch is the first intimation I have had of Barmore's seizure.

THOS. H. McKINNEY.

The Agent at the Columbia depot also telegraphed that the Banner's dispatch of inquiry afforded the people of Columbia the first and only hint they had on the subject.

It will be remembered that the affair occurred at half past one o'clock in the morning, when the inhabitants of Columbia were buried in slumber; no passengers got on the train, no one was waiting for it; there was not a single soul about the depot except the agent, who remained inside and saw nothing that happened, while the few passengers who got off the train were equally ignorant. The whole thing did not occupy over three minutes, and Barmore's captors moved at once for the country in a southwesterly direction. Under these circumstances, it is not extraordinary that the people of Columbia were in the dark. For all we know, they may be in that condition yet.

When Barmore was taken from the train he left his silver-headed cane and carpet-bag on the seat he had occupied. He was not missed by Conductor Moore until the latter went through the train to collect the tickets, when, on making inquiry, he was informed by a passenger as to what had occurred. The property was brought to Nashville and placed in the baggage-room of the depot.

Prominent among the eager inquiries made yesterday on all sides, were "What had he done?" "Why did they take him?" On these points we by no means claim to be an "authority," but we have a few surmises with regard thereto, which may possibly be worth the giving. Barmore was very ambitious for distinction in the profession. He wanted both fame and money. Most of the Nashville detectives and all the regular police were "down on him" (for what cause we know not) and invariably refused to co-operate with him. Since the passage of the Ku Klux law his movements have indicated a determination on his part to avail himself, if possible, of the tempting rewards held out in that act. He dogged the steps of leading citizens of Maury and Giles counties, when they were in the city, so persistently that it became a matter of almost general remark. He made frequent visits to the counties named, ostensibly on business connected with his calling, but, as was generally understood, to spy out the land. The objects of his disinterested inquiries became alarmed at the presence in their midst of so wary an enemy, and, some months ago, he was seized, initiated into what they called the "Padlock Degree," and warned that if he again appeared in the country his life would be declared forfeit. Whether his reappearance there last Monday brought upon him the terrible fate with which it had been associated by the masked brotherhood, only further developments can show.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, }
MEMPHIS, January 14, 1869. }

FINANCE.

An election for President, Vice-President and Cashier of the First National Bank took place to-day. The result will be found in another place.

There was some complaint about scarity of currency to-day. Many of our banks have overloaded themselves with exchange, and were compelled to sell to their neighbors at ⅛c discount, in order to meet the demand for currency, which continues to be active for the purchase of cotton. A very large proportion of the money received in this way, by the cotton seller, goes direct to the country, and does not return to the bank in the shape of a deposit. Eastern bills are sold at a small rebate on our quotations, in large amounts. New Orleans bills are scarce and firm.

	Buying.	Selling.
New England	⅛ dis.	par@⅛ dis.
New York	⅛ dis.	" "
St. Louis	⅛ "	"
Louisville	⅛ "	"
Cincinnati	⅛ "	"
New Orleans	¼ dis@par	¼ prem

Gold advances steadily. It opened in New York to-day at 136½c and closed at 136¼c. Exchange was steady at 9¾@10¼c.

Gold is a scarce commodity in this market. Dealers buy small lots at 135@135½c. Selling at 136½c.

There was nothing done in City Bonds to-day, so far as we could learn. We quote them nominally 48½@49c buying on orders.

City Scrip is also nominally unchanged. Dealers are not buying. They sell at 77@80c, in a small way.

County Warrants are offered occasionally, and are taken by brokers at 70@72c. Selling at 75c.

Police and School Scrips are firm and unchanged.

At the annual election for Directors of the Bank of New Orleans, held in that city, the following gentlemen were chosen to serve for the ensuing year, viz: Messrs. Charles Cavaroc, Antoine Lanata, L. M. Avendano, S. Cambon, L. Basset, C. DeRuyter, C. Ledig, U. Marioni, E. F. Mioton, F. E. Bernard, F. B. Fieitas and L. B. Pothier. Mr. Avendano's is the only new name, all the others being unanimously re-elected.

Great Britain paid £70,665,538 for cotton in 1866, and £49,438,231 in 1867, being an average of 28 cents per pound in 1866, and only 17½ cents in 1867.

We learn that a State officer is now in our city, with subpœnas for several of our citizens, who are supposed to know something about the school fund, which disappeared from the Tennessee National Bank of this city. They will be required to visit Nashville, as witnesses in this interesting case of fraud and wholesale robbery.

The New England dividends payable in January, in most of the stock companies, are in advance of the July payments. Railroads average six per cent. for the last six months, and make up a total of $3,061,220. In the manufacturing companies the gross amount of dividends to twenty-nine corporations is $1,819,500, an average of eight per cent. for the last six months. Of the cotton mills, the Naumkeag, at Salem, pays twenty-five per cent. for the year. The interest on bonds, State, national, city and railroad, is in amount $7,780,398, and there is a grand total of $12,552,038—a gain of over one million in stock dividends from any previous quotation since 1866.

COTTON.

The Liverpool market was active at the opening to-day—Uplands, 11¾d; Orleans, 11⅞d. At 1:20 p.m. it was active; Uplands, 11¾@11⅞d; Orleans, 11⅞d. It was easier at the close, with sales of 20,000 bales—Uplands, 11¾d; Orleans, 11⅞d.

The demand was fair and prices firm at the opening in New York—Uplands, 29½@29¾c. At 11:25 the demand was good and prices higher; Low Middlings, 29c; Middlings, 29½c; Orleans, 30c; Good Middlings, 30½c. At noon prices were firm and demand fair. At 2 p.m. it was less active but prices maintained; sales 3000 bales; Uplands, 29½c. At 3 p.m. it was quiet but steady, and at the close was quiet and weak—Low Middlings, 29c; Uplands, 29½c; Orleans, 30c; Good Middlings, 30½c.

In New Orleans, at 11:30 a.m., the demand was good and prices tending upwards—Middlings, 27¾c. At 2:30 p.m. holders asked an advance, but buyers were cautious; sales 5000 bales; Middlings, 28c.

Our market was quiet but firm. There was no inquiry, except of a speculative character. Spinners' agents were off the market. The high prices prevailing here have caused many buyers to turn their attention to other markets, and yesterday and to-day not less than 4000 bales were bought in New Orleans on account of Memphis buyers. Receipts are falling off rapidly. It was thought that the advance would bring a large increase of stock, but these anticipations have not been realized, and we think, for very good reasons—i.e., it is not in the country to ship. We quote the market firm as follows:

TRADE.

Business was dull to-day, owing partly to the weather and partly to the absence of nearly all of our local packets. The value to our city of her packet lines can be realized fully on Wednesdays and Thursdays of each week. On these days we rarely have more than one or two in port, and the contrast in trade is very great, compared with all other days in the week. We would commend all of our local packets to our merchants. Every pound of freight should be held for them. By fostering these steamers, we advance our own interests. The trade between the mouth of the Arkansas and Vicksburg was lost to us by the apathy of our people and the want of foresight in making shipments. Any outside boat which would take freight was patronized, and, as a consequence, the Vicksburg and Memphis packet line died out for want of support. We also confidently believe that Memphis could support a New Orleans line of steamers, leaving here once a week. This could only be done by our merchants ordering their up freights shipped exclusively on our own packets.

The Senate, on Tuesday, killed the bill exempting capital of $25,000 and upwards from taxation for ten years. The vote on its final passage stood ten for to eleven against.

From the 1st of July, 1865, to the 1st of July, 1868, 1,000,000 natives of foreign countries have settled in the United States. These bring with them specie or its equivalent at an average of eighty dollars per head. As laborers, they are worth, beside, $1000 per head. Thus there has been added to our wealth, since the close of the war, by immigration, $80,000,000 directly, and $500,000,000 indirectly.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

A change in the weather set in yesterday, and rain commenced to fall at noon. No cessation occurred during the afternoon or night, and the Nicholson pavement was one vast sea of mud. We think that all the old Board of Aldermen should be rolled over the Nicholson in their respective wards—that is if in doing so more dirt might not be added to the several inches already upon it. The river is rising, but is now at such a stage that the swell does not show up as rapidly as heretofore. The rise in the past twenty-four hours amounted to six inches. The latest news from the Arkansas and White rivers reported them falling; but we may look for another rise in that direction. The latest from above will be found in our telegraphic columns.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Our dispatches of yesterday announced the explosion and total destruction of the steamer Glide, about fifty miles above New Orleans. Several lives were lost, among them, we are pained to record, that of George Wood, well known in this city, where he has resided for some years. Mr. Wood was pilot on the Glide, and was, we believe, on watch at the time of the explosion. He received such injuries as caused his death in New Orleans yesterday morning. His remains will arrive by rail to-day. Mr. Wood was ever held in high esteem by his brother pilots, as well as by all who knew him, and the news of his sudden death filled them with regret. The Glide was a sternwheeler, commanded by Capt. J. F. Muse. Mr. L. W. Clayton was her clerk. She plied between New Orleans and Grand Ecore on Red river, and left New Orleans on her up trip on Tuesday evening last.

The Will S. Hays passed up for St. Louis last evening. She put off 1600 barrels of flour at this port on her trip down, and the second clerk was required by his chief to watch it all night. In coming out of the Arkansas on her way up a passenger was taken seriously ill. The medicine chest of the boat was resorted to and a dose of medicine given to the sick man, for which the economical gentleman in the office charged 50c. If the boat don't make money on the trip it won't be her clerk's fault.

We failed to meet Jack Chambers at his accustomed haunts last night, and therefore think that the W. A. Caldwell got away, but she had not gone at a late hour and possibly may not get away until early this morning.

We are pleased to learn that Capt. John B. Davis is again up and attending to his duties. We hope it may be years before he is again sick abed.

The Natoma, Capt. Jim Lee, backs out to-day for Friar's Point and all way landings on the Mississippi. She has no superior as a prompt and reliable packet. Billy Fields, Sterling Whitehead and Jim Saulsbury are her officers.

The Bermuda, Capt. Claycomb, is the regular Saturday Pine Bluff packet.

The fine steamer, Mountaineer, Capt. John W. Malin, will be in port to leave at 4 p.m., for Cairo and St. Louis, making railroad connections north and east. Monroe Cunningham, an accomplished young officer, is her chief clerk.

The Lizzie Gill, Mississippi and Robert Burns are due from below to-day.

The Hesper, Capt. John Morris, with Stack Lee in the office, backs out to-morrow for Wittsburg and all way points on St. Francis river.

The Linton leaves to-morrow for all points on St. Francis river. Capt. Jim Snell is master of the Linton, and is a popular officer.

The splendid steamer Mississippi, Capt. Green, will pass up for Cairo and St. Louis to-day. She is probably one of the very best passenger packets afloat, and her officers are courteous and kind to all. They "never talk about anybody."

The gay steamer Clifton, Capt. Stein, will get away to-morrow with a good trip for Cairo, Louisville and Cincinnati. She is one of the best packets in the line. Mr Hunter has charge of the office.

The dashing Mayflower, Capt. Ashford, is the regular U. S. mail packet for White river to-morrow. She makes all landings, connects with the Little Rock train, and with the Fairy Queen for points above Augusta. Charley Smithers is clerk.

A communication appeared in the local columns of this paper yesterday in relation to one of our Pine Bluff packets which places the officers of that boat in anything but a favorable light before the traveling public.

The Marine Association of St. Louis, have appointed Capts. Mason, Gould and Bofinger to proceed to Washington on steamboat affairs.

Since writing a paragraph, which appears elsewhere, we learn that owing to the weather several merchants were unable to get their freight aboard the W. A. Caldwell yesterday, and she was consequently compelled to lay over until to-day. Capt. Rube Haynes will back out promptly at 5 p.m. Jack Chambers and Bob. Shields are her clever pursers.

The Cheyenne, which has been running in the Arkansas river and New Orleans trade, not finding any cotton going South from that stream, has concluded to go north. She came up last night, and is now in port.

The good steamer Norman, Capt. Hewett, will be in port to back out this evening for Cairo and Evansville. Mr. Twomey is her chief clerk.

The Argosy will be in port to-day with the Ozark in tow. The Argosy leaves on Monday for Little Rock. Capt. Tom Berry is master.

Capt. O. P. Thorp, of the Cincinnati Dry Docks, found on the wreck of the steamer United States a silver cup, with the following inscription cut in the side: "Eva; from grandma Thompson." The cup was undoubtedly the property of Miss Eva Jones, who was among the lost on the United States.

The Marine Association of Louisville adopted the following resolutions, from the St. Louis Marine Charitable Association, regulating pilot in regard to signals: "That the new steamboat bill now before Congress be so amended, that in case of boats meeting at night, it shall be the duty of the pilot of the upstream boat, when meeting a descending boat, to stop his engines within 300 yards, and the down-stream boat to work slow; the descending boat then to signify which side she desires to take, and to keep up the signal until the ascending boat responds, when both boats can assume their headway, if satisfied of no danger of collision."

The New Orleans Picayune says: "The pilot of the steamboat Era No. 9 has been suspended by the Board of Local Inspectors of this District, for the term of sixty days, for violation of rule seven of the "Rules and Regulations for the Government of Pilots," in the case of the sinking of the steamboat Era No. 10, near Turnbull's sugar mill, on Red river, December 17. Pilots generally, it is said, are not careful enough in adhering closely to the rules laid down for their government in thick or foggy weather.

Rule seven, referred to, reads as follows: "When a steamer is running in a fog or thick weather, it shall be the duty of the pilot to sound the steam whistle at intervals not exceeding two minutes."

The Mobile Register says: They find queer employment for river news reporters in Memphis. They have just elected Jim Durff, of the Avalanche, alderman of the Third ward. Jim's "hermitage" of the lungs must be getting better.

The towboat Jackson brought up Mr. D. Wheeler's consignment of Alderney cattle from the British ship Azuline, in the lower bay, yesterday morning. The animals looked a little the "worse for wear" from their long sea voyage, though otherwise in excellent condition.

The new boat lately built at the shipyard of J. M. Brown & Co., for the M. & M. railway, was yesterday towed down to the slip opposite Campbell's Press. She will be completed in about two weeks, and is intended to take the place of the steamer Sumter.

UNION FEMALE COLLEGE,

Oxford, Mississippi.

Chartered by the State in 1854, and authorized to confer the Highest Educational Honors on Young Ladies.

MERITS—AIM—CARE.—Parents and Guardians are especially invited to consider the merits of this Institution. To educate—in the true sense of the word—to educate thoroughly the young ladies of the South, is its aim. The departments of Mathematics, Physical and Moral Sciences, Literature, Ancient and Modern Languages, Music, Drawing, etc., are ably filled by accomplished teachers, male and female.

Special care—it may be said, uncommon care is taken not only to thoroughly educate in the Arts and Sciences, but to render the pupils contented and happy, to train their moral sentiments, to cultivate correct tastes, to preserve their health, and to throw around them proper restraints. In short, to afford to patrons one of the very best regulated Institutions in the land.

APPARATUS.—Arrangements have been made to supply the College with suitable Apparatus sufficient to illustrate the Sciences, and to give a practical knowledge of them. In addition, the classes in Chemistry, Astronomy and Natural Philosophy, through the courtesy of the officers of the State University, will have access to its large and well appointed Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus, excelled by none in the South, and to be favored with lectures and experimental illustrations by Drs. Garland and Hilgard, the learned Professors in those Departments.

BUILDING—LOCATION.—The building, estimated to be worth $40,000, is commodious, comfortable and retired.

REFERENCES.—All patrons and pupils of the College.

BOARDING DEPARTMENT.—In charge of Rev. W. W. McMahon, is kept in a style seldom, if ever, equaled. All the teachers board in the College.

UNIFORMITY OF DRESS—ECONOMY.—Purple Calico, Brown Merino, Pink Delaine, Pink Lawn and White Dresses, Plain Hat, trimmed only with a band of black velvet. Those wishing to wear mourning are required to conform in plainness of dress, but not in color. As economy is the object of this arrangement, new pupils need not lay aside clothing already on hand, if as plain as the uniform, but when additional purchases are necessary, the uniform must be regarded.

EXPENSES.—Per session of 20 weeks, half in advance:

Preparatory Classes	$ 17 50
College Classes, proper	25 00
Ancient and Modern Languages, each	12 50
Music, each Instrument	25 00
Use of Instruments	5 00
Ornamental branches, usual rates
Board, Lodging, Washing, Fuel, Lights and Attendance	100 00

Pupils charged at the above rates from the date of entrance until end of session in June, except in cases of protracted sickness.
